Mankind has long pondered what the first contact between extraterrestrials and humans might be like. Serious studies have been made, theories proposed, and scientists have weighed in on what they think would be the most likely scenario. What if none of these theories were right?

What if? What if the pilot of a UFO wasn't here to save our environment? What if the pilot wasn't here to save us from ourselves? What if the pilot wasn't here to conquer us? What if the pilot, a beautiful, clever woman, doesn't even want us to know she's here?

Ona, a visitor, is on a mission with a purpose: she needs a bacterium we consider common, but she does need help. She enlists the help of Jed Mabry, a retired Marine and recluse. Unfortunately, the forces that control this world are out to capture her and she must use her amazing ability to look like anyone to elude capture.
